

Miriam Hicks

Miriam's journey to Sol Housing in 2018 was fueled by a profound dedication to creating affordable housing solutions. With over two decades of architectural experience at Dekker/Perich/Sabatini in Albuquerque, she brings a wealth of knowledge in entitlements, affordable housing projects, construction administration, and design. As a licensed architect, Miriam excels in guiding projects from initial funding applications through to successful community occupancy. Her expertise in coordination and communication ensures seamless project execution. Miriam holds a Bachelor of Architecture from Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University and actively contributes to her community by serving on multiple boards focused on affordable housing and equity. Outside of her professional and civic commitments, Miriam enjoys spending quality time with her family, engaging in backyard farming, and pursuing various healthy living and homesteading projects.
